Mask Requirement Announcement

Taiwan to ease current mask mandate and related epidemic prevention measures starting December 1

PublishTime : 2022-11-28

On November 28, the Central Epidemic Command Center (CECC) announced that it will loosen its mask-wearing rules and related epidemic prevention measures on December 1; related details are listed below.

- A. The requirement that people need to wear a mask at all times outdoors will be discontinued. However, the mask-wearing rules for outdoor, large-scale year-end/New Year's Eve countdown events will be further discussed based on recent developments in the pandemic situation.
- B. The mask mandate, which requires masks to be worn at all times, will remain in place for indoor settings (including inside a vehicle, such as train, ship, and aircraft). A face mask will not be required in some situations.
- C. People do not need to wear a mask indoors in the following situations, but they should carry one with them or have one ready for use. Masks are still required if COVID-19 symptoms are present and social distancing with unknown persons cannot be maintained:
 - 1. When exercising, singing, or taking individual/group photos;
 - 2. When driving by oneself (driving alone) or with live-in family members;
 - 3. When livestreaming, filming, moderating an event, reporting, delivering remarks, giving a speech, lecturing, or during activities or events involving conversations with others;
 - 4. When people are in hot/cold springs, dry sauna rooms, spas, steam rooms, saunas, during water activities, or in venues where masks can get wet easily.
